

Who I Am* Teacher Resource

A great deal of thanks and appreciation goes out to the members of our Teacher Advisory Committee, who volunteer their time to assist in the development of Sprockets teacher resources.

This teacher resource was written by Scott Johnstone.

Four teenagers from diverse backgrounds discuss their identity in this compelling collection of documentaries. Speaking with openness and honesty, the youth talk about their thoughts, feelings, challenges and hopes. From a skilled female soccer player proud of her Muslim faith, to a young Hindu wondering if her marriage will be arranged, a Roma youth getting in touch with her people's history, and a gay teen creating a space for other gay and lesbian youth, these four adolescents find strength in being who they are.

CURRICULUM LINKS: Family Studies, World Issues, English

FOCUSING QUESTION: How do I know who I am supposed to be?

SYNOPSIS:

Jamila (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2004

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Ingeborg Jansen

Sixteen-year-old Jamila is a talented soccer player and a proud Muslim who candidly discusses the challenges she faces both from her teammates about her religion, and from her family for being a female athlete.

How Hormones Changed My Life (17 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Wilma Ligthart

With her hormones kicking in, fourteen-year-old Tanvi has begun noticing boys, leading her to question whether she will be able to choose her future husband or if, in keeping with cultural tradition, her marriage will be arranged.

Porajmos (16 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Erik Fusco

Sixteen-year-old Maira's ambivalence about her Roma heritage changes when a memorial trip to Auschwitz deepens her understanding of what happened to her ancestors, strengthening her connection to her culture.

Danny's Parade (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2007

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Anneke de Lind van Wijngaarden

Fourteen-year-old Danny wants to take part in Amsterdam's pride parade, and decides to organize a float for gay and lesbian youth aged sixteen and under. But will he be able to find anyone to join him?

Recommended for grades 9 through 12

AN EDUCATOR'S COMMENTS ON THE FILMS:

"These four films sensitively and poignantly examine the trials and tribulations of four unique teens attempting to fashion definitive identities in the midst of challenging circumstances. While the films are all set in Holland, the circumstances of the respective subjects are by no means unique to that country. The themes are very modern and reflective of the multicultural and multilingual nature of most countries today. Each film also demands of its audience an openness of mind and an acceptance of 'the other' necessary for all of us to live harmoniously in any country in this day and age."

PRE-SCREENING PREPARATION:

Jamila

Islam for Today lists the rules and rationale for the way in which Muslim women traditionally dress: www.islamfortoday.com/7conditions.htm.

How Hormones Changed My Life

- Familiarize students with the Bollywood film industry and actor Shah Rukh Khan.
- Provide some background knowledge about arranged marriages.

Porajmos

- Provide some background knowledge about the Roma people (or "gypsies" as they are more commonly known) and the Sinti language.
- Discuss how this group suffered during the Holocaust.

Danny's Parade

- The travel website DutchAmsterdam.nl has an article about Danny Hoekzema and his accomplishments: www.dutchamsterdam.nl/218-amsterdam-gay-pride-canal-parade.

The formation of the modern teen identity often involves a tricky balancing act between traditional values (e.g., religion, family) and more modern ones (e.g., consumerism, Facebook). A worthwhile activity would be to ask the class what they feel are the key markers of identity for them and their peers. In groups of five or six, have each group come up with four key items and categorize each as either traditional or modern. Record the groups' responses on chart paper and discuss each one thoroughly

POST-SCREENING ACTIVITY:

Have each student answer the following questions individually:

1. How does each film's teenaged subject experience the clash of modern values with traditional ones? Respond in chart form, giving two examples for each film (see example below).

Film	Traditional	vs	Modern
How Hormones...	arranged marriage		"love marriage"

2. How does this clash impact the identity of each subject?

3. How are the challenges each subject faces like or unlike the challenges you face in the formation of your own identity? Explain.

CONCLUSION/WRAP-UP:

Using the software Comic Life (licensed to the Board), have students produce a brief "identity memoir" in comic form, revealing the elements which they feel are most important in fashioning their own personal identity, be they traditional or modern. The focusing question – How do I know who I am supposed to be? – could be used to frame this assignment.

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES:

Ian Esquivel, head of Media Studies for the Board, runs a great workshop on Comic Life and would gladly come into your school.

Persepolis, the graphic novel series by Marjane Satrapi, would be an ideal modern literary tie-in for this series of documentaries. In addition, the novels were adapted into an award-winning film in 2007.

Catcher in the Rye would be an ideal classic literary tie-in for this series.

Who I Am* Teacher Resource

A great deal of thanks and appreciation goes out to the members of our Teacher Advisory Committee, who volunteer their time to assist in the development of Sprockets teacher resources.

This teacher resource was written by Scott Johnstone.

Four teenagers from diverse backgrounds discuss their identity in this compelling collection of documentaries. Speaking with openness and honesty, the youth talk about their thoughts, feelings, challenges and hopes. From a skilled female soccer player proud of her Muslim faith, to a young Hindu wondering if her marriage will be arranged, a Roma youth getting in touch with her people's history, and a gay teen creating a space for other gay and lesbian youth, these four adolescents find strength in being who they are.

CURRICULUM LINKS: Family Studies, World Issues, English

FOCUSING QUESTION: How do I know who I am supposed to be?

SYNOPSIS:

Jamila (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2004

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Ingeborg Jansen

Sixteen-year-old Jamila is a talented soccer player and a proud Muslim who candidly discusses the challenges she faces both from her teammates about her religion, and from her family for being a female athlete.

How Hormones Changed My Life (17 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Wilma Ligthart

With her hormones kicking in, fourteen-year-old Tanvi has begun noticing boys, leading her to question whether she will be able to choose her future husband or if, in keeping with cultural tradition, her marriage will be arranged.

Porajmos (16 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Erik Fusco

Sixteen-year-old Maira's ambivalence about her Roma heritage changes when a memorial trip to Auschwitz deepens her understanding of what happened to her ancestors, strengthening her connection to her culture.

Danny's Parade (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2007

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Anneke de Lind van Wijngaarden

Fourteen-year-old Danny wants to take part in Amsterdam's pride parade, and decides to organize a float for gay and lesbian youth aged sixteen and under. But will he be able to find anyone to join him?

Recommended for grades 9 through 12

AN EDUCATOR'S COMMENTS ON THE FILMS:

"These four films sensitively and poignantly examine the trials and tribulations of four unique teens attempting to fashion definitive identities in the midst of challenging circumstances. While the films are all set in Holland, the circumstances of the respective subjects are by no means unique to that country. The themes are very modern and reflective of the multicultural and multilingual nature of most countries today. Each film also demands of its audience an openness of mind and an acceptance of 'the other' necessary for all of us to live harmoniously in any country in this day and age."

PRE-SCREENING PREPARATION:

Jamila

Islam for Today lists the rules and rationale for the way in which Muslim women traditionally dress: www.islamfortoday.com/7conditions.htm.

How Hormones Changed My Life

- Familiarize students with the Bollywood film industry and actor Shah Rukh Khan.
- Provide some background knowledge about arranged marriages.

Porajmos

- Provide some background knowledge about the Roma people (or "gypsies" as they are more commonly known) and the Sinti language.
- Discuss how this group suffered during the Holocaust.

Danny's Parade

- The travel website DutchAmsterdam.nl has an article about Danny Hoekzema and his accomplishments: www.dutchamsterdam.nl/218-amsterdam-gay-pride-canal-parade.

The formation of the modern teen identity often involves a tricky balancing act between traditional values (e.g., religion, family) and more modern ones (e.g., consumerism, Facebook). A worthwhile activity would be to ask the class what they feel are the key markers of identity for them and their peers. In groups of five or six, have each group come up with four key items and categorize each as either traditional or modern. Record the groups' responses on chart paper and discuss each one thoroughly

POST-SCREENING ACTIVITY:

Have each student answer the following questions individually:

1. How does each film's teenaged subject experience the clash of modern values with traditional ones? Respond in chart form, giving two examples for each film (see example below).

Film	Traditional	vs	Modern
How Hormones...	arranged marriage		"love marriage"

2. How does this clash impact the identity of each subject?

3. How are the challenges each subject faces like or unlike the challenges you face in the formation of your own identity? Explain.

CONCLUSION/WRAP-UP:

Using the software Comic Life (licensed to the Board), have students produce a brief "identity memoir" in comic form, revealing the elements which they feel are most important in fashioning their own personal identity, be they traditional or modern. The focusing question – How do I know who I am supposed to be? – could be used to frame this assignment.

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES:

Ian Esquivel, head of Media Studies for the Board, runs a great workshop on Comic Life and would gladly come into your school.

Persepolis, the graphic novel series by Marjane Satrapi, would be an ideal modern literary tie-in for this series of documentaries. In addition, the novels were adapted into an award-winning film in 2007.

Catcher in the Rye would be an ideal classic literary tie-in for this series.

Who I Am* Teacher Resource

A great deal of thanks and appreciation goes out to the members of our Teacher Advisory Committee, who volunteer their time to assist in the development of Sprockets teacher resources.

This teacher resource was written by Scott Johnstone.

Four teenagers from diverse backgrounds discuss their identity in this compelling collection of documentaries. Speaking with openness and honesty, the youth talk about their thoughts, feelings, challenges and hopes. From a skilled female soccer player proud of her Muslim faith, to a young Hindu wondering if her marriage will be arranged, a Roma youth getting in touch with her people's history, and a gay teen creating a space for other gay and lesbian youth, these four adolescents find strength in being who they are.

CURRICULUM LINKS: Family Studies, World Issues, English

FOCUSING QUESTION: How do I know who I am supposed to be?

SYNOPSIS:

Jamila (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2004

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Ingeborg Jansen

Sixteen-year-old Jamila is a talented soccer player and a proud Muslim who candidly discusses the challenges she faces both from her teammates about her religion, and from her family for being a female athlete.

How Hormones Changed My Life (17 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Wilma Ligthart

With her hormones kicking in, fourteen-year-old Tanvi has begun noticing boys, leading her to question whether she will be able to choose her future husband or if, in keeping with cultural tradition, her marriage will be arranged.

Porajmos (16 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Erik Fusco

Sixteen-year-old Maira's ambivalence about her Roma heritage changes when a memorial trip to Auschwitz deepens her understanding of what happened to her ancestors, strengthening her connection to her culture.

Danny's Parade (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2007

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Anneke de Lind van Wijngaarden

Fourteen-year-old Danny wants to take part in Amsterdam's pride parade, and decides to organize a float for gay and lesbian youth aged sixteen and under. But will he be able to find anyone to join him?

Recommended for grades 9 through 12

AN EDUCATOR'S COMMENTS ON THE FILMS:

"These four films sensitively and poignantly examine the trials and tribulations of four unique teens attempting to fashion definitive identities in the midst of challenging circumstances. While the films are all set in Holland, the circumstances of the respective subjects are by no means unique to that country. The themes are very modern and reflective of the multicultural and multilingual nature of most countries today. Each film also demands of its audience an openness of mind and an acceptance of 'the other' necessary for all of us to live harmoniously in any country in this day and age."

PRE-SCREENING PREPARATION:

Jamila

Islam for Today lists the rules and rationale for the way in which Muslim women traditionally dress: www.islamfortoday.com/7conditions.htm.

How Hormones Changed My Life

- Familiarize students with the Bollywood film industry and actor Shah Rukh Khan.
- Provide some background knowledge about arranged marriages.

Porajmos

- Provide some background knowledge about the Roma people (or "gypsies" as they are more commonly known) and the Sinti language.
- Discuss how this group suffered during the Holocaust.

Danny's Parade

- The travel website DutchAmsterdam.nl has an article about Danny Hoekzema and his accomplishments: www.dutchamsterdam.nl/218-amsterdam-gay-pride-canal-parade.

The formation of the modern teen identity often involves a tricky balancing act between traditional values (e.g., religion, family) and more modern ones (e.g., consumerism, Facebook). A worthwhile activity would be to ask the class what they feel are the key markers of identity for them and their peers. In groups of five or six, have each group come up with four key items and categorize each as either traditional or modern. Record the groups' responses on chart paper and discuss each one thoroughly

POST-SCREENING ACTIVITY:

Have each student answer the following questions individually:

1. How does each film's teenaged subject experience the clash of modern values with traditional ones? Respond in chart form, giving two examples for each film (see example below).

Film	Traditional	vs	Modern
How Hormones...	arranged marriage		"love marriage"

2. How does this clash impact the identity of each subject?

3. How are the challenges each subject faces like or unlike the challenges you face in the formation of your own identity? Explain.

CONCLUSION/WRAP-UP:

Using the software Comic Life (licensed to the Board), have students produce a brief "identity memoir" in comic form, revealing the elements which they feel are most important in fashioning their own personal identity, be they traditional or modern. The focusing question – How do I know who I am supposed to be? – could be used to frame this assignment.

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES:

Ian Esquivel, head of Media Studies for the Board, runs a great workshop on Comic Life and would gladly come into your school.

Persepolis, the graphic novel series by Marjane Satrapi, would be an ideal modern literary tie-in for this series of documentaries. In addition, the novels were adapted into an award-winning film in 2007.

Catcher in the Rye would be an ideal classic literary tie-in for this series.

Who I Am* Teacher Resource

A great deal of thanks and appreciation goes out to the members of our Teacher Advisory Committee, who volunteer their time to assist in the development of Sprockets teacher resources.

This teacher resource was written by Scott Johnstone.

Four teenagers from diverse backgrounds discuss their identity in this compelling collection of documentaries. Speaking with openness and honesty, the youth talk about their thoughts, feelings, challenges and hopes. From a skilled female soccer player proud of her Muslim faith, to a young Hindu wondering if her marriage will be arranged, a Roma youth getting in touch with her people's history, and a gay teen creating a space for other gay and lesbian youth, these four adolescents find strength in being who they are.

CURRICULUM LINKS: Family Studies, World Issues, English

FOCUSING QUESTION: How do I know who I am supposed to be?

SYNOPSIS:

Jamila (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2004

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Ingeborg Jansen

Sixteen-year-old Jamila is a talented soccer player and a proud Muslim who candidly discusses the challenges she faces both from her teammates about her religion, and from her family for being a female athlete.

How Hormones Changed My Life (17 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Wilma Ligthart

With her hormones kicking in, fourteen-year-old Tanvi has begun noticing boys, leading her to question whether she will be able to choose her future husband or if, in keeping with cultural tradition, her marriage will be arranged.

Porajmos (16 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Erik Fusco

Sixteen-year-old Maira's ambivalence about her Roma heritage changes when a memorial trip to Auschwitz deepens her understanding of what happened to her ancestors, strengthening her connection to her culture.

Danny's Parade (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2007

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Anneke de Lind van Wijngaarden

Fourteen-year-old Danny wants to take part in Amsterdam's pride parade, and decides to organize a float for gay and lesbian youth aged sixteen and under. But will he be able to find anyone to join him?

Recommended for grades 9 through 12

AN EDUCATOR'S COMMENTS ON THE FILMS:

"These four films sensitively and poignantly examine the trials and tribulations of four unique teens attempting to fashion definitive identities in the midst of challenging circumstances. While the films are all set in Holland, the circumstances of the respective subjects are by no means unique to that country. The themes are very modern and reflective of the multicultural and multilingual nature of most countries today. Each film also demands of its audience an openness of mind and an acceptance of 'the other' necessary for all of us to live harmoniously in any country in this day and age."

PRE-SCREENING PREPARATION:

Jamila

Islam for Today lists the rules and rationale for the way in which Muslim women traditionally dress: www.islamfortoday.com/7conditions.htm.

How Hormones Changed My Life

- Familiarize students with the Bollywood film industry and actor Shah Rukh Khan.
- Provide some background knowledge about arranged marriages.

Porajmos

- Provide some background knowledge about the Roma people (or "gypsies" as they are more commonly known) and the Sinti language.
- Discuss how this group suffered during the Holocaust.

Danny's Parade

- The travel website DutchAmsterdam.nl has an article about Danny Hoekzema and his accomplishments: www.dutchamsterdam.nl/218-amsterdam-gay-pride-canal-parade.

The formation of the modern teen identity often involves a tricky balancing act between traditional values (e.g., religion, family) and more modern ones (e.g., consumerism, Facebook). A worthwhile activity would be to ask the class what they feel are the key markers of identity for them and their peers. In groups of five or six, have each group come up with four key items and categorize each as either traditional or modern. Record the groups' responses on chart paper and discuss each one thoroughly

POST-SCREENING ACTIVITY:

Have each student answer the following questions individually:

1. How does each film's teenaged subject experience the clash of modern values with traditional ones? Respond in chart form, giving two examples for each film (see example below).

Film	Traditional	vs	Modern
How Hormones...	arranged marriage		"love marriage"

2. How does this clash impact the identity of each subject?

3. How are the challenges each subject faces like or unlike the challenges you face in the formation of your own identity? Explain.

CONCLUSION/WRAP-UP:

Using the software Comic Life (licensed to the Board), have students produce a brief "identity memoir" in comic form, revealing the elements which they feel are most important in fashioning their own personal identity, be they traditional or modern. The focusing question – How do I know who I am supposed to be? – could be used to frame this assignment.

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES:

Ian Esquivel, head of Media Studies for the Board, runs a great workshop on Comic Life and would gladly come into your school.

Persepolis, the graphic novel series by Marjane Satrapi, would be an ideal modern literary tie-in for this series of documentaries. In addition, the novels were adapted into an award-winning film in 2007.

Catcher in the Rye would be an ideal classic literary tie-in for this series.

Who I Am* Teacher Resource

A great deal of thanks and appreciation goes out to the members of our Teacher Advisory Committee, who volunteer their time to assist in the development of Sprockets teacher resources.

This teacher resource was written by Scott Johnstone.

Four teenagers from diverse backgrounds discuss their identity in this compelling collection of documentaries. Speaking with openness and honesty, the youth talk about their thoughts, feelings, challenges and hopes. From a skilled female soccer player proud of her Muslim faith, to a young Hindu wondering if her marriage will be arranged, a Roma youth getting in touch with her people's history, and a gay teen creating a space for other gay and lesbian youth, these four adolescents find strength in being who they are.

CURRICULUM LINKS: Family Studies, World Issues, English

FOCUSING QUESTION: How do I know who I am supposed to be?

SYNOPSIS:

Jamila (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2004

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Ingeborg Jansen

Sixteen-year-old Jamila is a talented soccer player and a proud Muslim who candidly discusses the challenges she faces both from her teammates about her religion, and from her family for being a female athlete.

How Hormones Changed My Life (17 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Wilma Ligthart

With her hormones kicking in, fourteen-year-old Tanvi has begun noticing boys, leading her to question whether she will be able to choose her future husband or if, in keeping with cultural tradition, her marriage will be arranged.

Porajmos (16 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Erik Fusco

Sixteen-year-old Maira's ambivalence about her Roma heritage changes when a memorial trip to Auschwitz deepens her understanding of what happened to her ancestors, strengthening her connection to her culture.

Danny's Parade (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2007

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Anneke de Lind van Wijngaarden

Fourteen-year-old Danny wants to take part in Amsterdam's pride parade, and decides to organize a float for gay and lesbian youth aged sixteen and under. But will he be able to find anyone to join him?

Recommended for grades 9 through 12

AN EDUCATOR'S COMMENTS ON THE FILMS:

"These four films sensitively and poignantly examine the trials and tribulations of four unique teens attempting to fashion definitive identities in the midst of challenging circumstances. While the films are all set in Holland, the circumstances of the respective subjects are by no means unique to that country. The themes are very modern and reflective of the multicultural and multilingual nature of most countries today. Each film also demands of its audience an openness of mind and an acceptance of 'the other' necessary for all of us to live harmoniously in any country in this day and age."

PRE-SCREENING PREPARATION:

Jamila

Islam for Today lists the rules and rationale for the way in which Muslim women traditionally dress: www.islamfortoday.com/7conditions.htm.

How Hormones Changed My Life

- Familiarize students with the Bollywood film industry and actor Shah Rukh Khan.
- Provide some background knowledge about arranged marriages.

Porajmos

- Provide some background knowledge about the Roma people (or "gypsies" as they are more commonly known) and the Sinti language.
- Discuss how this group suffered during the Holocaust.

Danny's Parade

- The travel website DutchAmsterdam.nl has an article about Danny Hoekzema and his accomplishments: www.dutchamsterdam.nl/218-amsterdam-gay-pride-canal-parade.

The formation of the modern teen identity often involves a tricky balancing act between traditional values (e.g., religion, family) and more modern ones (e.g., consumerism, Facebook). A worthwhile activity would be to ask the class what they feel are the key markers of identity for them and their peers. In groups of five or six, have each group come up with four key items and categorize each as either traditional or modern. Record the groups' responses on chart paper and discuss each one thoroughly

POST-SCREENING ACTIVITY:

Have each student answer the following questions individually:

1. How does each film's teenaged subject experience the clash of modern values with traditional ones? Respond in chart form, giving two examples for each film (see example below).

Film	Traditional	vs	Modern
How Hormones...	arranged marriage		"love marriage"

2. How does this clash impact the identity of each subject?

3. How are the challenges each subject faces like or unlike the challenges you face in the formation of your own identity? Explain.

CONCLUSION/WRAP-UP:

Using the software Comic Life (licensed to the Board), have students produce a brief "identity memoir" in comic form, revealing the elements which they feel are most important in fashioning their own personal identity, be they traditional or modern. The focusing question – How do I know who I am supposed to be? – could be used to frame this assignment.

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES:

Ian Esquivel, head of Media Studies for the Board, runs a great workshop on Comic Life and would gladly come into your school.

Persepolis, the graphic novel series by Marjane Satrapi, would be an ideal modern literary tie-in for this series of documentaries. In addition, the novels were adapted into an award-winning film in 2007.

Catcher in the Rye would be an ideal classic literary tie-in for this series.

Who I Am* Teacher Resource

A great deal of thanks and appreciation goes out to the members of our Teacher Advisory Committee, who volunteer their time to assist in the development of Sprockets teacher resources.

This teacher resource was written by Scott Johnstone.

Four teenagers from diverse backgrounds discuss their identity in this compelling collection of documentaries. Speaking with openness and honesty, the youth talk about their thoughts, feelings, challenges and hopes. From a skilled female soccer player proud of her Muslim faith, to a young Hindu wondering if her marriage will be arranged, a Roma youth getting in touch with her people's history, and a gay teen creating a space for other gay and lesbian youth, these four adolescents find strength in being who they are.

CURRICULUM LINKS: Family Studies, World Issues, English

FOCUSING QUESTION: How do I know who I am supposed to be?

SYNOPSIS:

Jamila (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2004

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Ingeborg Jansen

Sixteen-year-old Jamila is a talented soccer player and a proud Muslim who candidly discusses the challenges she faces both from her teammates about her religion, and from her family for being a female athlete.

How Hormones Changed My Life (17 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Wilma Ligthart

With her hormones kicking in, fourteen-year-old Tanvi has begun noticing boys, leading her to question whether she will be able to choose her future husband or if, in keeping with cultural tradition, her marriage will be arranged.

Porajmos (16 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Erik Fusco

Sixteen-year-old Maira's ambivalence about her Roma heritage changes when a memorial trip to Auschwitz deepens her understanding of what happened to her ancestors, strengthening her connection to her culture.

Danny's Parade (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2007

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Anneke de Lind van Wijngaarden

Fourteen-year-old Danny wants to take part in Amsterdam's pride parade, and decides to organize a float for gay and lesbian youth aged sixteen and under. But will he be able to find anyone to join him?

Recommended for grades 9 through 12

AN EDUCATOR'S COMMENTS ON THE FILMS:

"These four films sensitively and poignantly examine the trials and tribulations of four unique teens attempting to fashion definitive identities in the midst of challenging circumstances. While the films are all set in Holland, the circumstances of the respective subjects are by no means unique to that country. The themes are very modern and reflective of the multicultural and multilingual nature of most countries today. Each film also demands of its audience an openness of mind and an acceptance of 'the other' necessary for all of us to live harmoniously in any country in this day and age."

PRE-SCREENING PREPARATION:

Jamila

Islam for Today lists the rules and rationale for the way in which Muslim women traditionally dress: www.islamfortoday.com/7conditions.htm.

How Hormones Changed My Life

- Familiarize students with the Bollywood film industry and actor Shah Rukh Khan.
- Provide some background knowledge about arranged marriages.

Porajmos

- Provide some background knowledge about the Roma people (or "gypsies" as they are more commonly known) and the Sinti language.
- Discuss how this group suffered during the Holocaust.

Danny's Parade

- The travel website DutchAmsterdam.nl has an article about Danny Hoekzema and his accomplishments: www.dutchamsterdam.nl/218-amsterdam-gay-pride-canal-parade.

The formation of the modern teen identity often involves a tricky balancing act between traditional values (e.g., religion, family) and more modern ones (e.g., consumerism, Facebook). A worthwhile activity would be to ask the class what they feel are the key markers of identity for them and their peers. In groups of five or six, have each group come up with four key items and categorize each as either traditional or modern. Record the groups' responses on chart paper and discuss each one thoroughly

POST-SCREENING ACTIVITY:

Have each student answer the following questions individually:

1. How does each film's teenaged subject experience the clash of modern values with traditional ones? Respond in chart form, giving two examples for each film (see example below).

Film	Traditional	vs	Modern
How Hormones...	arranged marriage		"love marriage"

2. How does this clash impact the identity of each subject?

3. How are the challenges each subject faces like or unlike the challenges you face in the formation of your own identity? Explain.

CONCLUSION/WRAP-UP:

Using the software Comic Life (licensed to the Board), have students produce a brief "identity memoir" in comic form, revealing the elements which they feel are most important in fashioning their own personal identity, be they traditional or modern. The focusing question – How do I know who I am supposed to be? – could be used to frame this assignment.

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES:

Ian Esquivel, head of Media Studies for the Board, runs a great workshop on Comic Life and would gladly come into your school.

Persepolis, the graphic novel series by Marjane Satrapi, would be an ideal modern literary tie-in for this series of documentaries. In addition, the novels were adapted into an award-winning film in 2007.

Catcher in the Rye would be an ideal classic literary tie-in for this series.

Who I Am* Teacher Resource

A great deal of thanks and appreciation goes out to the members of our Teacher Advisory Committee, who volunteer their time to assist in the development of Sprockets teacher resources.

This teacher resource was written by Scott Johnstone.

Four teenagers from diverse backgrounds discuss their identity in this compelling collection of documentaries. Speaking with openness and honesty, the youth talk about their thoughts, feelings, challenges and hopes. From a skilled female soccer player proud of her Muslim faith, to a young Hindu wondering if her marriage will be arranged, a Roma youth getting in touch with her people's history, and a gay teen creating a space for other gay and lesbian youth, these four adolescents find strength in being who they are.

CURRICULUM LINKS: Family Studies, World Issues, English

FOCUSING QUESTION: How do I know who I am supposed to be?

SYNOPSIS:

Jamila (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2004

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Ingeborg Jansen

Sixteen-year-old Jamila is a talented soccer player and a proud Muslim who candidly discusses the challenges she faces both from her teammates about her religion, and from her family for being a female athlete.

How Hormones Changed My Life (17 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Wilma Ligthart

With her hormones kicking in, fourteen-year-old Tanvi has begun noticing boys, leading her to question whether she will be able to choose her future husband or if, in keeping with cultural tradition, her marriage will be arranged.

Porajmos (16 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Erik Fusco

Sixteen-year-old Maira's ambivalence about her Roma heritage changes when a memorial trip to Auschwitz deepens her understanding of what happened to her ancestors, strengthening her connection to her culture.

Danny's Parade (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2007

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Anneke de Lind van Wijngaarden

Fourteen-year-old Danny wants to take part in Amsterdam's pride parade, and decides to organize a float for gay and lesbian youth aged sixteen and under. But will he be able to find anyone to join him?

Recommended for grades 9 through 12

AN EDUCATOR'S COMMENTS ON THE FILMS:

"These four films sensitively and poignantly examine the trials and tribulations of four unique teens attempting to fashion definitive identities in the midst of challenging circumstances. While the films are all set in Holland, the circumstances of the respective subjects are by no means unique to that country. The themes are very modern and reflective of the multicultural and multilingual nature of most countries today. Each film also demands of its audience an openness of mind and an acceptance of 'the other' necessary for all of us to live harmoniously in any country in this day and age."

PRE-SCREENING PREPARATION:

Jamila

Islam for Today lists the rules and rationale for the way in which Muslim women traditionally dress: www.islamfortoday.com/7conditions.htm.

How Hormones Changed My Life

- Familiarize students with the Bollywood film industry and actor Shah Rukh Khan.
- Provide some background knowledge about arranged marriages.

Porajmos

- Provide some background knowledge about the Roma people (or "gypsies" as they are more commonly known) and the Sinti language.
- Discuss how this group suffered during the Holocaust.

Danny's Parade

- The travel website DutchAmsterdam.nl has an article about Danny Hoekzema and his accomplishments: www.dutchamsterdam.nl/218-amsterdam-gay-pride-canal-parade.

The formation of the modern teen identity often involves a tricky balancing act between traditional values (e.g., religion, family) and more modern ones (e.g., consumerism, Facebook). A worthwhile activity would be to ask the class what they feel are the key markers of identity for them and their peers. In groups of five or six, have each group come up with four key items and categorize each as either traditional or modern. Record the groups' responses on chart paper and discuss each one thoroughly

POST-SCREENING ACTIVITY:

Have each student answer the following questions individually:

1. How does each film's teenaged subject experience the clash of modern values with traditional ones? Respond in chart form, giving two examples for each film (see example below).

Film	Traditional	vs	Modern
How Hormones...	arranged marriage		"love marriage"

2. How does this clash impact the identity of each subject?

3. How are the challenges each subject faces like or unlike the challenges you face in the formation of your own identity? Explain.

CONCLUSION/WRAP-UP:

Using the software Comic Life (licensed to the Board), have students produce a brief "identity memoir" in comic form, revealing the elements which they feel are most important in fashioning their own personal identity, be they traditional or modern. The focusing question – How do I know who I am supposed to be? – could be used to frame this assignment.

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES:

Ian Esquivel, head of Media Studies for the Board, runs a great workshop on Comic Life and would gladly come into your school.

Persepolis, the graphic novel series by Marjane Satrapi, would be an ideal modern literary tie-in for this series of documentaries. In addition, the novels were adapted into an award-winning film in 2007.

Catcher in the Rye would be an ideal classic literary tie-in for this series.

Who I Am* Teacher Resource

A great deal of thanks and appreciation goes out to the members of our Teacher Advisory Committee, who volunteer their time to assist in the development of Sprockets teacher resources.

This teacher resource was written by Scott Johnstone.

Four teenagers from diverse backgrounds discuss their identity in this compelling collection of documentaries. Speaking with openness and honesty, the youth talk about their thoughts, feelings, challenges and hopes. From a skilled female soccer player proud of her Muslim faith, to a young Hindu wondering if her marriage will be arranged, a Roma youth getting in touch with her people's history, and a gay teen creating a space for other gay and lesbian youth, these four adolescents find strength in being who they are.

CURRICULUM LINKS: Family Studies, World Issues, English

FOCUSING QUESTION: How do I know who I am supposed to be?

SYNOPSIS:

Jamila (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2004

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Ingeborg Jansen

Sixteen-year-old Jamila is a talented soccer player and a proud Muslim who candidly discusses the challenges she faces both from her teammates about her religion, and from her family for being a female athlete.

How Hormones Changed My Life (17 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Wilma Ligthart

With her hormones kicking in, fourteen-year-old Tanvi has begun noticing boys, leading her to question whether she will be able to choose her future husband or if, in keeping with cultural tradition, her marriage will be arranged.

Porajmos (16 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Erik Fusco

Sixteen-year-old Maira's ambivalence about her Roma heritage changes when a memorial trip to Auschwitz deepens her understanding of what happened to her ancestors, strengthening her connection to her culture.

Danny's Parade (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2007

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Anneke de Lind van Wijngaarden

Fourteen-year-old Danny wants to take part in Amsterdam's pride parade, and decides to organize a float for gay and lesbian youth aged sixteen and under. But will he be able to find anyone to join him?

Recommended for grades 9 through 12

AN EDUCATOR'S COMMENTS ON THE FILMS:

"These four films sensitively and poignantly examine the trials and tribulations of four unique teens attempting to fashion definitive identities in the midst of challenging circumstances. While the films are all set in Holland, the circumstances of the respective subjects are by no means unique to that country. The themes are very modern and reflective of the multicultural and multilingual nature of most countries today. Each film also demands of its audience an openness of mind and an acceptance of 'the other' necessary for all of us to live harmoniously in any country in this day and age."

PRE-SCREENING PREPARATION:

Jamila

Islam for Today lists the rules and rationale for the way in which Muslim women traditionally dress: www.islamfortoday.com/7conditions.htm.

How Hormones Changed My Life

- Familiarize students with the Bollywood film industry and actor Shah Rukh Khan.
- Provide some background knowledge about arranged marriages.

Porajmos

- Provide some background knowledge about the Roma people (or "gypsies" as they are more commonly known) and the Sinti language.
- Discuss how this group suffered during the Holocaust.

Danny's Parade

- The travel website DutchAmsterdam.nl has an article about Danny Hoekzema and his accomplishments: www.dutchamsterdam.nl/218-amsterdam-gay-pride-canal-parade.

The formation of the modern teen identity often involves a tricky balancing act between traditional values (e.g., religion, family) and more modern ones (e.g., consumerism, Facebook). A worthwhile activity would be to ask the class what they feel are the key markers of identity for them and their peers. In groups of five or six, have each group come up with four key items and categorize each as either traditional or modern. Record the groups' responses on chart paper and discuss each one thoroughly

POST-SCREENING ACTIVITY:

Have each student answer the following questions individually:

1. How does each film's teenaged subject experience the clash of modern values with traditional ones? Respond in chart form, giving two examples for each film (see example below).

Film	Traditional	vs	Modern
How Hormones...	arranged marriage		"love marriage"

2. How does this clash impact the identity of each subject?

3. How are the challenges each subject faces like or unlike the challenges you face in the formation of your own identity? Explain.

CONCLUSION/WRAP-UP:

Using the software Comic Life (licensed to the Board), have students produce a brief "identity memoir" in comic form, revealing the elements which they feel are most important in fashioning their own personal identity, be they traditional or modern. The focusing question – How do I know who I am supposed to be? – could be used to frame this assignment.

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES:

Ian Esquivel, head of Media Studies for the Board, runs a great workshop on Comic Life and would gladly come into your school.

Persepolis, the graphic novel series by Marjane Satrapi, would be an ideal modern literary tie-in for this series of documentaries. In addition, the novels were adapted into an award-winning film in 2007.

Catcher in the Rye would be an ideal classic literary tie-in for this series.

Who I Am* Teacher Resource

A great deal of thanks and appreciation goes out to the members of our Teacher Advisory Committee, who volunteer their time to assist in the development of Sprockets teacher resources.

This teacher resource was written by Scott Johnstone.

Four teenagers from diverse backgrounds discuss their identity in this compelling collection of documentaries. Speaking with openness and honesty, the youth talk about their thoughts, feelings, challenges and hopes. From a skilled female soccer player proud of her Muslim faith, to a young Hindu wondering if her marriage will be arranged, a Roma youth getting in touch with her people's history, and a gay teen creating a space for other gay and lesbian youth, these four adolescents find strength in being who they are.

CURRICULUM LINKS: Family Studies, World Issues, English

FOCUSING QUESTION: How do I know who I am supposed to be?

SYNOPSIS:

Jamila (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2004

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Ingeborg Jansen

Sixteen-year-old Jamila is a talented soccer player and a proud Muslim who candidly discusses the challenges she faces both from her teammates about her religion, and from her family for being a female athlete.

How Hormones Changed My Life (17 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Wilma Ligthart

With her hormones kicking in, fourteen-year-old Tanvi has begun noticing boys, leading her to question whether she will be able to choose her future husband or if, in keeping with cultural tradition, her marriage will be arranged.

Porajmos (16 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Erik Fusco

Sixteen-year-old Maira's ambivalence about her Roma heritage changes when a memorial trip to Auschwitz deepens her understanding of what happened to her ancestors, strengthening her connection to her culture.

Danny's Parade (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2007

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Anneke de Lind van Wijngaarden

Fourteen-year-old Danny wants to take part in Amsterdam's pride parade, and decides to organize a float for gay and lesbian youth aged sixteen and under. But will he be able to find anyone to join him?

Recommended for grades 9 through 12

AN EDUCATOR'S COMMENTS ON THE FILMS:

"These four films sensitively and poignantly examine the trials and tribulations of four unique teens attempting to fashion definitive identities in the midst of challenging circumstances. While the films are all set in Holland, the circumstances of the respective subjects are by no means unique to that country. The themes are very modern and reflective of the multicultural and multilingual nature of most countries today. Each film also demands of its audience an openness of mind and an acceptance of 'the other' necessary for all of us to live harmoniously in any country in this day and age."

PRE-SCREENING PREPARATION:

Jamila

Islam for Today lists the rules and rationale for the way in which Muslim women traditionally dress: www.islamfortoday.com/7conditions.htm.

How Hormones Changed My Life

- Familiarize students with the Bollywood film industry and actor Shah Rukh Khan.
- Provide some background knowledge about arranged marriages.

Porajmos

- Provide some background knowledge about the Roma people (or "gypsies" as they are more commonly known) and the Sinti language.
- Discuss how this group suffered during the Holocaust.

Danny's Parade

- The travel website DutchAmsterdam.nl has an article about Danny Hoekzema and his accomplishments: www.dutchamsterdam.nl/218-amsterdam-gay-pride-canal-parade.

The formation of the modern teen identity often involves a tricky balancing act between traditional values (e.g., religion, family) and more modern ones (e.g., consumerism, Facebook). A worthwhile activity would be to ask the class what they feel are the key markers of identity for them and their peers. In groups of five or six, have each group come up with four key items and categorize each as either traditional or modern. Record the groups' responses on chart paper and discuss each one thoroughly

POST-SCREENING ACTIVITY:

Have each student answer the following questions individually:

1. How does each film's teenaged subject experience the clash of modern values with traditional ones? Respond in chart form, giving two examples for each film (see example below).

Film	Traditional	vs	Modern
How Hormones...	arranged marriage		"love marriage"

2. How does this clash impact the identity of each subject?

3. How are the challenges each subject faces like or unlike the challenges you face in the formation of your own identity? Explain.

CONCLUSION/WRAP-UP:

Using the software Comic Life (licensed to the Board), have students produce a brief "identity memoir" in comic form, revealing the elements which they feel are most important in fashioning their own personal identity, be they traditional or modern. The focusing question – How do I know who I am supposed to be? – could be used to frame this assignment.

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES:

Ian Esquivel, head of Media Studies for the Board, runs a great workshop on Comic Life and would gladly come into your school.

Persepolis, the graphic novel series by Marjane Satrapi, would be an ideal modern literary tie-in for this series of documentaries. In addition, the novels were adapted into an award-winning film in 2007.

Catcher in the Rye would be an ideal classic literary tie-in for this series.

Who I Am* Teacher Resource

A great deal of thanks and appreciation goes out to the members of our Teacher Advisory Committee, who volunteer their time to assist in the development of Sprockets teacher resources.

This teacher resource was written by Scott Johnstone.

Four teenagers from diverse backgrounds discuss their identity in this compelling collection of documentaries. Speaking with openness and honesty, the youth talk about their thoughts, feelings, challenges and hopes. From a skilled female soccer player proud of her Muslim faith, to a young Hindu wondering if her marriage will be arranged, a Roma youth getting in touch with her people's history, and a gay teen creating a space for other gay and lesbian youth, these four adolescents find strength in being who they are.

CURRICULUM LINKS: Family Studies, World Issues, English

FOCUSING QUESTION: How do I know who I am supposed to be?

SYNOPSIS:

Jamila (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2004

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Ingeborg Jansen

Sixteen-year-old Jamila is a talented soccer player and a proud Muslim who candidly discusses the challenges she faces both from her teammates about her religion, and from her family for being a female athlete.

How Hormones Changed My Life (17 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Wilma Ligthart

With her hormones kicking in, fourteen-year-old Tanvi has begun noticing boys, leading her to question whether she will be able to choose her future husband or if, in keeping with cultural tradition, her marriage will be arranged.

Porajmos (16 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2008

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Erik Fusco

Sixteen-year-old Maira's ambivalence about her Roma heritage changes when a memorial trip to Auschwitz deepens her understanding of what happened to her ancestors, strengthening her connection to her culture.

Danny's Parade (15 minutes)

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN: The Netherlands

RELEASE YEAR: 2007

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE: Dutch

DIRECTOR: Anneke de Lind van Wijngaarden

Fourteen-year-old Danny wants to take part in Amsterdam's pride parade, and decides to organize a float for gay and lesbian youth aged sixteen and under. But will he be able to find anyone to join him?

Recommended for grades 9 through 12

AN EDUCATOR'S COMMENTS ON THE FILMS:

"These four films sensitively and poignantly examine the trials and tribulations of four unique teens attempting to fashion definitive identities in the midst of challenging circumstances. While the films are all set in Holland, the circumstances of the respective subjects are by no means unique to that country. The themes are very modern and reflective of the multicultural and multilingual nature of most countries today. Each film also demands of its audience an openness of mind and an acceptance of 'the other' necessary for all of us to live harmoniously in any country in this day and age."

PRE-SCREENING PREPARATION:

Jamila

Islam for Today lists the rules and rationale for the way in which Muslim women traditionally dress: www.islamfortoday.com/7conditions.htm.

How Hormones Changed My Life

- Familiarize students with the Bollywood film industry and actor Shah Rukh Khan.
- Provide some background knowledge about arranged marriages.

Porajmos

- Provide some background knowledge about the Roma people (or "gypsies" as they are more commonly known) and the Sinti language.
- Discuss how this group suffered during the Holocaust.

Danny's Parade

- The travel website DutchAmsterdam.nl has an article about Danny Hoekzema and his accomplishments: www.dutchamsterdam.nl/218-amsterdam-gay-pride-canal-parade.

The formation of the modern teen identity often involves a tricky balancing act between traditional values (e.g., religion, family) and more modern ones (e.g., consumerism, Facebook). A worthwhile activity would be to ask the class what they feel are the key markers of identity for them and their peers. In groups of five or six, have each group come up with four key items and categorize each as either traditional or modern. Record the groups' responses on chart paper and discuss each one thoroughly

POST-SCREENING ACTIVITY:

Have each student answer the following questions individually:

1. How does each film's teenaged subject experience the clash of modern values with traditional ones? Respond in chart form, giving two examples for each film (see example below).

Film	Traditional	vs	Modern
How Hormones...	arranged marriage		"love marriage"

2. How does this clash impact the identity of each subject?

3. How are the challenges each subject faces like or unlike the challenges you face in the formation of your own identity? Explain.

CONCLUSION/WRAP-UP:

Using the software Comic Life (licensed to the Board), have students produce a brief "identity memoir" in comic form, revealing the elements which they feel are most important in fashioning their own personal identity, be they traditional or modern. The focusing question – How do I know who I am supposed to be? – could be used to frame this assignment.

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES:

Ian Esquivel, head of Media Studies for the Board, runs a great workshop on Comic Life and would gladly come into your school.

Persepolis, the graphic novel series by Marjane Satrapi, would be an ideal modern literary tie-in for this series of documentaries. In addition, the novels were adapted into an award-winning film in 2007.

Catcher in the Rye would be an ideal classic literary tie-in for this series.